

ABSTRACT

A driving apparatus having driving device and a driven portion to be driven by the driving device, is provided with:
5 an information obtaining device which obtains at least one of temperature information inside or around the apparatus, humidity information inside or around the apparatus, or voltage information inside the apparatus; an action amount monitoring device which monitors an action amount of the driven portion;
10 and an error detection device which refers to a different action amount error detection value according to a value related to the obtained information and detecting an action amount error of the driven portion based on the action amount error detection value.

15